The World Health Organization (WHO) acknowledges acupuncture to be effective for:

- Managing pain relief
- Managing discomfort of neurological conditions such as headaches and migraines
- Reducing stress and anxiety
- Managing digestive disorders, such as nausea and vomiting
- Preventing allergic rhinitis and common cold
- Increasing energy

Acupuncture Services

Acupuncture is a form of Chinese medicine that has been practiced for centuries. Today it is commonly practiced in western medicine to complement medical treatment. Acupuncture uses meridians (an energy pathway in the body) to stimulate the ability to promote balance, energy, and healing.

The World Health Organization (WHO) acknowledges acupuncture to be effective for:

- Managing pain relief
- Managing discomfort of neurological conditions such as headaches and migraines
- Reducing stress and anxiety
- Managing digestive disorders, such as nausea and vomiting
- Preventing allergic rhinitis and common cold
- Increasing energy

PRACTITIONER
Camille Loveman, DACM, LA-C

COST
Payment is due at time of service. Your health insurance may cover the cost of this service. Scholarships may be available for those in need of financial assistance.

For more information or to schedule an appointment, please call 1-415-925-7620.